

Responsible Party

You are responsible for providing the most accurate information regarding your insurance coverage. Your claim will be submitted to you insurance company. Your protected health and identifying information will be sent to your insurance company using secure means.

You are responsible for paying any co-payments or deductibles that apply to your account. In addition, if a claim is rejected or not paid by your insurance company, you assume responsibility for those charges. Your cost may not be determined until after a claim has been processed by your insurance company, which may take some months. For this reason, you may receive a bill for your exam up to one year after your exam date.

I have read and agree with the above statements.
